Lease of state lands debated

By TOM KISKEN

BELLE GLADE—Should state owned land in the Glades be leased to farmers through private negotiations or public bidding?

This question drew a crowd of the Glades biggest sugar cane growers to the Belle Glade City Hall, Monday, Feb. 13, where the Florida Division of State Lands held a workshop concerning the policies on the 19,000 acres of state land currently leased in the Everglades Agricultural Area.

The majority of the growers present at the workshop maintained farmers currently leasing state land should be given first opportunity, through negotiations, to retain the land.

George Wedgworth, president of the Sugar Cane Growers Cooperative of Florida Inc., was among those favoring negotiations. "I think the state can be selective," he said, asserting farmers should be judged on the quality of their land management, past performance and other factors, rather than just on a money basis.

On the other hand, Don Carson, director and senior vice president of Closter Farms, was among those who said all growers should be given an equal shot at the state land once current leases expire. Unless the state opens the land for public bid, there will be charges of favoritism, he said.

"I think the state has to open it to the public. If not, it comes down to who can donate the most money to whose political campaign," Carson stated.

The purpose of the workshop, according to James MacFarland, director of the Division of State Lands, was to give staff some direction in drafting a recommended policy for the leasing of any state land in the Glades. The state owns over 88,000 acres of land in the area.

A policy will be drafted by staff on Wednesday, Feb. 15 and then submitted to a technical land advisory committee the following day.

An approved policy will have to pass the State Land Management Advisory Committee on Feb. 23 before finally reaching Gov. Bob Graham's desk, March 6, when he and cabinet heads are scheduled to make a decision on the issue.

MacFarland said the state was looking toward three basic goals in any proposed leasing policy: Maintaining good land management practices.

Obtaining a favorable economic return.

Providing a fair and predictable policy for the land user.

Several state government representatives attended the meeting to hear the growers' input. Virtually all state cabinet heads were represented by aides. Several members of the State Land Advisory Committee also attended the meeting.

Local government figures Frank Messersmith, state representative, and Bill Bailey, county commissioner, were also present.

While MacFarland asked growers to comment on several issues, almost all discussion centered on the bidding versus negotiation issue.

City manager draft reviewed

By TOM KISKEN

PAHOKEE—City council members continue to work on the wording of the city manager question which they hope to pose to voters in form of a May election referendum.

At the council's regular meeting Tuesday, Feb. 14, Attorney Mike Stauder reviewed a first draft of a proposed ordinance which outlines the changes a city manager type of government would necessitate in the current city charter.

Council members are planning to ask voters to decide whether the city will adopt a city manager type of government in the May referendum.

Stauder told council members that if they wanted the city manager question on the May ballot, the proposed ordinance would have to be approved no later than March 26.

"You're going to have to move fast on this," he said.

Tentative decision and first reading on the proposal is scheduled for the council's next meeting, Tuesday, Feb. 28.

The proposed first draft ordinance was based on council discussion and recommendations submitted by a council appointed committee.

Stauder said that he made as few changes in possible in the current charter when drawing up the proposed ordinance. He warned council members of the risks of changing anything in the current charter without careful consideration of consequences.

Stauder also told council members the proposed ordinance before them was only a first draft and could be changed in any way they desired. Members suggested several changes as they went through the draft.

According to the proposed ordinance, the city manager would be appointed by a majority vote of the council, while the mayor and police chief would continue to be elected positions.

The city clerk's position would be changed from an elected to an appointed position.

The manager would take the current mayor's role as administrative head of city government, with some exceptions, according to the proposal. The duties of both the chief of police and city clerk would change little.

"The city manager shall be the chief executive officer and head of the administrative branch of city government," read the proposal.

The manager would not direct or supervise the City Police Department, this duty going to the chief of police.

The manager would have hiring and firing power over all non-official city employees. In addition he would be able to suspend all appointed

League to honor commissioners

Several South Bay and Belle Glade city commissioners will be honored in a banquet put on by the Florida State Voters League, Saturday, Feb. 18, beginning at 7:30 p.m. at the Belle Glade Country Club.

South Bay city commissioners Vernita Cox, Rennick Morris and Willie Marshall, along with Commissioner Daniel Bythwood, from Belle Glade, will all be recognized during the meeting.

Earlier Saturday, the voters league will sponsor voters' workshops at the Holiday Inn, Belle Glade, running from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Topics discussed in the workshops will include voter education, voter registration, understanding the electoral process and election economics.

Cox stressed the importance of the workshops. "We want to educate all the public, so that everyone gets out and votes," she said. All area residents are urged to attend at least a portion of the workshops, Cox added. There will be no admission charge.

Among the points stressed at the workshops, she said, will be voter participation. Too often registered voters fail to show up on election day, she said.

"If you don't do it (vote), you may lose the person you want," she said.

After the workshops, the action will move to

Pahokee drunk tank ignited

PAHOKEE—After setting fire to a mattress in the drunk tank, officers transferred the man to the holding cell.

According to police reports, Johnson tore down the ceiling in the cell, ripped lights down and tore a phone receiver from a phone.

Johnson was subsequently charged with criminal mischief and transferred to the county jail on a $1,500 bond.

Police Chief Carmen Salvatore III said he hoped to use a more solid plywood ceiling in rebuilding the cell, to help prevent such an incident from recurring.

Cycle crash leaves rider critical

BELLE GLADE—A Belle Glade man was listed in critical condition at Good Samaritan Hospital, West Palm Beach, after a motorcycle accident on Main St., Monday, Feb. 13.

Lance Edward Wynn, 18, 1600 N.W. Ave. F Place, suffered severe head injuries after falling from his cycle when it brushed against a pickup truck at about 12:30 p.m. Monday.

Wynn was immediately transported to Glades General Hospital where he was stabilized and then transferred on to the West Palm Beach

Marshall seeks re-election

SOUTH BAY—Willie Marshall has qualified to make a re-election bid for his seat as South Bay city commissioner.

Marshall turned in his qualification papers, Thursday, Feb. 9, beating the Tuesday, Feb. 14 deadline. He will face Mike Underwood in the March 13 election for the Group One seat.

In the Group Two race, incumbent Rennick Morris is running against Jim Shropshire and Clarence Anthony.

Marshall, 33, 165 NW 5th Ave., is seeking his second term. The city of South Bay is in a growing stage, he noted, adding that he would like to stay a part of this growth.

"We made some pretty good progress in the City of South Bay," Marshall said. "If I'm re-elected, I can help us do even better."

Bringing industry into the city was among major goals, cited by Marshall. In addition, he said, the city needs

SOUTH BAY—Clarence Anthony, 24, of 207 Villa Lago, filed Wednesday, Feb. 8, for the South Bay City Commission election, March 13.

Anthony will be making it a three-way race for the group 2 seat, running along with incumbent Rennick Morris and James Shropshire.

Anthony is a planner with the Palm Beach County Department of Housing and Community Development. He said he is "running because South Bay needs better representation."

He said he was urged to run by a lot of people and believes that with his experience with federal funds and governmental experience will be helpful.

"I want to bring more economic business to South Bay, possibly a major shopping mall. The citizenry want a different type of government. Government is growing, people want the ci-

Proposition 1, junk car discussion set

The Tri-Cities League, representing South Bay, Belle Glade and Pahokee, will meet Wednesday, Feb. 22 at 7:30 p.m. in the Belle Glade Country Club.

Issues to be discussed at the meeting include Proposition One, fire control districts and the junk car removal program being by used by each of the cities.

A dinner buffet will be served at the meeting.

State farm land lease

Carson noted, "All the emotion is generated by the one single issue, whether to bid or negotiate."

Richard S. Johnson, of Johnson Farms in Pahokee said for the most part the group was divided into "the have's and the have nots."

Most of those favoring negotiation currently leased state land and wanted to protect their land, Johnson said, while most of those favoring bids wanted their own shot at obtaining state land.

Sam Knight, co-owner of Atlantic Sugar Association, said he has probably spent over $1 million on state land which he has leased over the past several years. He added that he has greatly improved the value of the state land.

"I want to continue to lease state land," Knight said. "It would certainly be an economic loss to Atlantic Sugar to lose this land."

The state should consider several factors in making their decision, including what the sugar mills have done in the past, Knight said. "We have helped stabilize the state of Florida, in I think a big way."

Wedgworth agreed saying pioneers of the state land are now in danger of being penalized for their achievements.

These pioneers took a big risk 20 years ago in leasing the state land, he said. Now that the land users have made the land valuable and profitable, other farmers on the sideline want their own shot at it through an auction, Wedgworth summarized.

Carson and others who argued for public bids said that as a public representative the state had to make the land available to everyone.

"The only safe avenue available is to submit it to some sort of public bid process," Carson said. Johnson pointed out that the state does all of its purchasing and selling through bids. Why should state lands be different? he asked.

"I have just as much right to that land as anyone else," Johnson added.

Another issue which figured deeply in the leasing arguments was land management.

Farmers favoring negotiation argued that the bidding system ignored the quality of land management. The only factor considered in the bidding system was money, they said.

Messersmith said the State Legislature has mandated through law that money was not the only factor to be considered in state purchasing.

"I say to you, in your considerations, don't be swung solely by dollar value," he said.

Suicide fails, woman attacks officer

BELLE GLADE -- After an interrupted suicide attempt a woman, originally charged with armed robbery, turned on the police officer who both arrested her and stopped the suicide, according to police reports.

Cynthia Hill, 22, of 608 B Bryant Village, was charged with battery on a law enforcement officer Thursday, Feb. 9 after struggling with Patrolman W.T. Teal.

Hill was arrested at about 12:45 a.m., Thursday after reportedly stabbing and robbing Alvin Brown, 48, Glades Sugar Camp 3. Brown told police that a woman, later identified as Hill, stabbed him in the head and arm and took his wallet with $120 in it, after they had left the Bessie Bar, 122 S.W. Fifth St.

After interviewing several witnesses, Teal and Detective Michael Johnson apprehended Hill at 533 S.W. Ave. B Place. Hill was booked and placed in a holding cell. Teal reported that at about 2 a.m., he sighted Hill trying to hang herself with a blouse in the cell. He

Dr. Tom Carpenter, an agricultural expert, stressed the importance of maintaining the land. "I'm particularly concerned with the fact that we've seemed to lose sight of stewardship," he said.

Current land users would have a much better idea how to care for a particular land tract than brand new land users, Carpenter said. In leasing land, each tract needs to be studied individually from a land management standpoint, he added.

F. Perry Odum, attorney representing several growers, said that if the state was satisfied with the way an individual lessee was handling the land, they should try to keep the land in his hands. "If it ain't broke, don't fix it," he said.

Carson said the state could insure through regular inspections that the land was maintained sufficiently, regardless whether the lessee was new or old.

While stating land management is of utmost importance, Carson said most land users would take good care of the land. The tenants interests in this respect run fairly parallel to the landlord's, he noted.

Wedgworth contested this assertion, stating land management practices varied with each grower. The state should consider each firm's particular credentials in leasing land, he added.

While growers concentrated on just two of the leasing alternatives: bidding and negotiating,

MacFarland presented other alternatives including:

• Competitive bidding plus a fixed percentage of income from the property, figured at a flat annual rate.

• Competitive bidding with an annual adjustment based on average yields and crop prices in the area.

• Competitive bidding with annual adjustments based on the Consumer Price Index. MacFarland also asked growers how big the leased plots should be, noting the state owns tracts, ranging in size from 15-300 acres.

Wedgworth said the availability of some smaller tracts would give the smaller farmers a chance to lease land.

Knight said he thought it would be unfair to divide valuable land into small portions, because few of the bigger growers would be interested in a small piece of land.

All of the growers said the state should not dictate what crops are grown on the land.

In addition to MacFarland, other state land staff members present at the meeting included: Edwin J. Conklin, assistant bureau chief of lands management; Billy Helm, chief of forest management, and Jack Merriam, land planner.

The state land representatives were scheduled to take a tour of parcels of state land, Tuesday, Feb. 14.

Marian Kendig wins 'You're Still Ticking' award

By TOM KISKEN

Ask Marian Kendig, of Belle Glade, how old she is and she'll say with a big grin, "Let's just say over 50."

"To tell you the truth I never think about age and how old I am," she adds. It's this attitude which was recognized by Job Service of Florida and Timex Corporation as they announced Feb. 6 that Kendig was one of six senior citizens in Florida to win the "You're Still Ticking" award.

The award honors the talents, skills and experience of older workers throughout the state. Kendig and the five other state winners will travel to Orlando for the National Employ the Older Worker Week celebration on Friday, March 9, when a grand prize winner will be named.

The grand prize winner will receive two Eastern Air Lines tickets to any city in the nation, and a 1984 LTD Crown Victoria on loan. All six winners will receive a home computer, watch and other prizes.

A full time case manager with the Crisis

Stabilization Unit of the Western Palm Beach County Mental Health Clinic in Belle Glade, Kendig was nominated for the senior citizen award by the clinic's administrative staff as a caregiver.

"I didn't know about it until last Monday morning," she said. "The first thing I thought of was what do I do now."

Joseph Amato, director of the clinic, said the administrative staff wanted to show their appreciation of Kendig's enthusiasm in her work and her commitment to both the clinic and the community.

"Marian's an inspiration to all the staff in respect to the energy, enthusiasm and dedication she shows in her work," he said.

Kendig works a 40-plus-hour week for the crisis center. She says the best part of the job is, "You're busy all the time."

Keeping active is the key to dealing with age, Kendig comments. "You have to think in terms of productivity not age," she says.

Asked if she has future retirement plans, Kendig says, "The day I'll retire, I've decided, will be when I can't remember when Monday is, or when Tuesday is." Be assured that this day is a long way off.

At the crisis center, Kendig and other employees remove severely troubled people from their natural environment, place them in the clinic temporarily and then determine what will be the best treatment for the individual.

The job centers around relating to people, and Kendig notes she has always enjoyed communicating with others.

"Older people have a great deal to offer to others, especially young people, as long as they open up," she says.

Kendig has worked for the crisis stabilization unit since 1980 and for the Mental Health Clinic since 1976.

Previously, she worked as a counselor for troubled teenagers and as a member of Volunteers In-Service to America (VISTA). She is originally from Philadelphia.

Shooting charges filed

BELLE GLADE -- Police Department officials charged a man with aggravated battery, shooting into an occupied vehicle and aggravated battery on Friday, Feb. 10.

Eddie Lee Langston, 55, of Belle Glade, was arrested after reportedly firing several random revolver shots on the 200 Block of Southwest 6th St. late Friday night.

One man was struck, but not seriously injured by a bullet, while another bullet hit a vehicle.

Demetris Rolle, of Belle Glade, was treated at Glades General Hospital after being struck in the chest with a bullet. The .32 calibre bullet did not penetrate through Rolle's jacket and he was released from the hospital the same night.

Randolph Jackson, also of Belle Glade, reported that a bullet struck his vehicle.

Patrolman W.P. Kenney responded to Southwest Sixth Street at about 11:45 p.m.,

Friday and reported that he saw Langston carrying a gun. Kenney and Sgt. Ron Shunk arrested Langston at an apartment and recovered six live pistol cartridges from the residence.

Drug bust made

BELLE GLADE -- A man was arrested for selling controlled substances after attempting to sell valium to a police officer, according to police reports.

Richard Delgado, 22, of Belle Glade, was arrested early the morning of Saturday, Feb. 11, at the Holiday Inn for reportedly trying to sell valium, for which he had a prescription.

Patrolman W.P. Kenney said he was at the Holiday Inn, Saturday night, when he saw a police officer, Sergio Lorginos informed him that a drug deal might be going on in the bathroom.

Kenney reported that he went in the bathroom and was offered pills of diazepam, a type of valium, at a price.

Kenney said he arrested the man who then informed him that the medicine was prescribed.

Vocational education

We urge you to join the 18.5 million Americans who have advanced themselves through vocational education institutions.

This week, Feb. 12-18, is Vocational Education Week and a prime time for Glades residents to discover what they can learn through local vocational centers.

The West Technical Education Center, SR 115, Belle Glade, offers classes of all kinds, ranging from business study and cooking to auto mechanics and welding.

The Center is having an open house Thursday, Feb. 23. We join the center in recommending you stop by and see just what you've been missing.

Vocational education is effective. Students are trained in the classroom, laboratory and on-the-job.

All ages can benefit from local vocational centers. The younger among us can obtain high school equivalency certificates and develop professional careers. For other older students, vocational centers are a place to discover hobbies.

Whoever you are and whatever you're looking for, there is a good chance you could find it through vocational education. It is surely worth the trip or phone call to West Tech or your local high school.

IN THE YEAR 2525 ...

Aeronautics for the simple minded

Those of us who are forever losing something can sympathize with NASA. Losing one satellite would set a world's record in the category of "biggest thing ever lost." But two of them?

That's astronomical! It really is. Why? Well, it really points out, though, is just how many man's progress in getting both feet off the ground has been, let alone trying to do it loaded down with packages.

This is known as the history of aeronautics, the answer to a very, very old question. "It sounds okay, but will it fly?" For countless centuries the answer was no. It is only in this century that the answer has been a definite "Maybe."

Aeronautics has made significant steps upward because of two brothers named Wright. One day, as the two boys were watching the family still, Norbert turned to his brother Melville and said, "The birds do it. The bees do it. Why can't we?"

After suffering several fractured ankles and dislocated vertebrae, Melville had the answer.

"We got wings," Melville said. "The birds do it. The bees do it. Why can't we?"

Others have learned there are things you can ingest that will get you into space but this is not aeronautics. The body must also go along on the trip. This is known as the first law of aeronautics, although it hasn't yet been passed by both houses of Congress.

Ailsa Dewing

"And What Not"

Any way you look at it, Melville and Norbert had the wrong stuff, unlike another pair of Wright brothers who, instead of trying to grow wings, built some. They too suffered setbacks, contusions and lacerations, but at least they succeeded in not becoming the first casualties of what would become a horrendous number of air disasters resulting from some people trying to fly with other people's wings.

The first flyer we know about to crash land was a Greek boy named Icarus who tried to fly with wings made of wax, even before the Cedar Waxwing (bombicilla cedrorum) was discovered and which doesn't have wax wings at all. Which only piles mystery on mystery. But that's the way it is with aeronautics.

Anyway, Icarus was grounded by the sun's heat and he sank slowly into the sea, where he made another discovery. You can't get the wax off with seawater. It was an American woman, who, again in this century, disclosed to the world the secret of removing hardened wax from bodies, tablecloths, and polished surfaces. We know her only as Heloise. Doesn't all this make you realize how many important contributions to progress have been made by America that would never have happened if it hadn't been discovered by somebody who got lost? An Italian, incidentally, who, whatever his faults were, had better sense than to try getting here by flying.

As soon as the right Wright brothers learned what it is that keeps things like birds and bees up in the air, they faced another problem: how to keep from landing in flower beds and trees. This problem is still with us but has been partially solved by building airports with very big parking lots to make them bigger than anything else around, so that pilots have viable options.

As soon as man had learned to fly without fracturing his fuselage, he had another dilemma: Who's going to pay for all this?

The answer was provided by the U.S. Postal Service. Mail bags are comparatively light cargo, and they don't need restrooms or smoking areas. Also, if mail bags fall off airplanes they don't get delivered, nobody would think anything of it. (It's true, we don't think much of it.) But just in case, the postal service created a complaint form with a coded number employees would instantly recognize. It signaled: keep moving this back to the far end of the sorting machine.

If, by some chance, the form did get forwarded, no harm would be done because there was nobody at that address anyway. In time, of course, all the US mail was to be handled in this fashion and we can thank early aviation that the mail situation no longer baffles us.

Carrying the mail was not a profitable venture, though. Stamps only cost 2 cents in those days. A whole bagful wasn't worth $10 so the airlines began picking up hitchhikers and that led to passenger flights and from there it was only a hop, skip and a whole lot of government funding, to get into the aerospace program.

Our aerospace successes have also been phenomenal. The future is filled with promise. And probably lots more free-floating satellites, too. But it might be worse. They could be carrying the mail. Which, of course, one day, they will be. But, unlike the mailbags which fall in the sea and are lost, those in the satellites that get away will be retrieved. They will only be delayed a million light years or so at the Saturn substation waiting to be rerouted.

Preparing for the Lenten Season

PreLenten meditation. Read this preparation for the important Lenten Season and then ask yourself, DO YOU WANT CHRIST FOR KING?

The people of Jerusalem were caught up in a spontaneous outburst of enthusiasm for the prophet from Nazareth. The Hosannas linked Jesus with the hero king, David.

The Legendary King represented the high point of Israelite history. The nation was courted by other kings, and the military prowess was applauded and feared.

Yet in the excitement and the thrill of the triumphant entry and the outpouring of adoration and acclamation the people thought of only what they wanted in the way of a king.

Did they REALLY want Christ for their King? What kind of a king was Christ? He was a king who promised nothing in the way of physical or financial reward. Yet we know Jesus was concerned about the material. He took care of the needs of the people who gathered away from the city, when he fed them.

Christ did not promise alleviation of suffering, yet He had compassion on the poor, the lowly, and those in authority. He did promise that peace could come out of pain and suffering.

In fact Jesus asked for complete denial of self so that a follower or subject could give complete allegiance to Him. Christ was a sovereign who must be first in the life of every subject.

While demanding complete loyalty and submission, this king gives to those about him the picture of humility and service. He sets an example as He goes among the needy, spiritually and is willing to act as a servant.

Well then, why would anyone be willing to forsake Him? When there is a conflict of interest, Christ wanted to take care of the spiritual man, knowing that this must be well or all else was a waste of time. If our spiritual health is good, then we can stand or handle any physical obstacle or hardship.

Dr. David T. Evans

Everglades Presbyterian Church

Jesus was no respecter of persons and yet respected everyone. He did not like what many did, but He could accept them. Only unbeliever could not be concerned.

Jesus, who came as the king and deliverer, came to all people and therefore He did not give the religious leaders any preference, and of course this angered them.

Jesus set the stage for complete rejection by stressing the spiritual over the material and physical, and almost ignoring the high priests and scribes. Yet at the same time Christ was acting in love. Indulgence to the whims of children either young or old only increases problems of character development.

Today the greatest reason for being disloyal to our king is the unwillingness to accept His complete sovereignty over our lives. We don't like to be told what to do, or to conform to a standard. By the same token, we accept the pleas of advertisers and we willingly conform to standards of dress and style.

However, when Christ comes along with a commandment which will allow us the greatest freedom from conformity, the greatest freedom from vanity, the greatest freedom from physical desires and appetites, and the greatest freedom from chasing the rainbows of success and social approval, we reject Him.

How simple it is! How hard it is to comprehend the depths! How all encompassing! "Love one another, even as I have loved you."

Right now we want Christ to be king of our hearts and over our lives. With the Hosannas waving and the palms waving, we easily say Christ is king. However, we are unwilling to deny ourselves, take up our cross and follow Christ.

When you start to make this move you must separate yourself from the crowd. The disciples do not follow the smooth road of the many, but the rough and narrow path of the few.

The palm branches are much more easily held and waved than the heavy and rugged cross. The frustration of indecision and selfishness is preferred to decisive acts of love because the king in the end was and is rejected by the crowd.

Stop, don't just think of now, but the fullness of life promised by the suffering servant sovereign - citizenship in the Kingdom of Heaven, comfort, the earth for a heritage, satisfaction, mercy, a vision of God, sonship to God and a reward in heaven.

The King of Palm Sunday had a short tenure of office in Jerusalem but He has survived the centuries. His promise of eternal life is made out of eternal love. Accept His kingship on His terms, leave the crowd and live.

His kingship has triumphed and seeks you and me as followers to share His victory over the enemies of life. To share it fully go to the upper room, the Garden of Gethsemane, to the high priests, the Court of Pilate, and to Golgotha before you go to the empty tomb next Sunday. The crown of thorns will be the crown of glory and we will join His followers and He will be our King.

Pahokee council holds revenue sharing hearing

PAHOKEE — City council members discussed how to use about $51,000 in federal revenue sharing funds at a public hearing, Tuesday, Feb. 14.

Council members heard presentations from two groups which had requested a portion of funds and then made preliminary indications on how to divide the money.

A second public hearing will be held on the revenue sharing at a future meeting.

President Ada Cooney informed those who are asking for portions of the federal funds. "We've got only so much money to split up."

While no official decisions were made on the revenue sharing funds, Councilman Ronnie Graydon suggested the following breakdown of funds:

$9,000 — Water tank for the city fire truck.
$10,000 — Replacement car for Utilities Director Bill Cross, who is currently without a city vehicle.

$8,600 — Computer system for city, additional

GDS contest held

The annual Glades Day School Little Mr. and Miss Contest was held Wednesday, Feb. 8, in the school gymnasium.

The winner of the Little Miss was Lindsey Crews, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Crews.

Little Mr. was won by Henry Rionda, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Rionda.

The first runners up in the contest were Barbara Camers and Ian Brewer. Second runner up were Jennifer Perkins and Ronnie Frapp.

general budget funds will also be used for this item.

$3,000 — Fire hydrants.
$10,000 — Truck for the utilities department.
$8,000 — Truck for parks department.
$1,000 — Rural Health Committee daycare center.

$1,000 — Community Action Headstart Center.
$400 — Newly formed drug awareness center.

Graydon said most of the above items were city needs to which council members had made commitments.

Both day care centers and the drug awareness center all spoke before the council at Tuesday's meeting.

In other city business:
Council members approved the purchase of a CompuPro computer program for the city from Steve's Computer Works System at a price of $3,135.

Little Mr. and Mrs. Glades Day

by last year's Little Miss Alina Blanchard and Little Mr. Warren Fontaine.

All 50 contestants received ribbons for entering the contest.

The gym was decorated in a Valentine theme, featuring red and pink hearts hanging all around.

The featured guest for the evening was "Donald Duck." He escorted each contestant down the aisle.

The contestants were judged on a one to ten basis in four categories. These categories were poise, appearance, personality, and answering a question. Some of the older students of the school provided entertainment and helped the contestants.

The program includes the CompuPro central unit, a printer, four terminals and assorted software.

Bob Shackford presented two computer program bids to the council, recommending CompuPro over IBM. The difference in price between the two units was more than $29,000 in favor of CompuPro, he said. In addition, IBM does not install their computers as part of the base fee, while the other company does.

Councilmen Graydon and W.E. McKinstry both indicated they had hoped the council would receive more than two bids on the computers.

Shackford told these councilmen that regardless of who responded, he did not think anything would be less expensive than the CompuPro bids.

Graydon also asked Shackford to attempt to negotiate with Steve's Computer World over the amount of training time they would give city employees. The company offers 50 hours of training as part of the purchase, which Graydon said he was not sure would be adequate.

Building Inspector Phelix Slonaker told council members that some 200 housing units in the city are substandard. Those living in these units should be evacuated, but they cannot be moved until replacement housing is located, he said.

Slonaker said hopefully some replacement housing will be available within 90 days.

Council members appointed the following residents to the Code Enforcement Board:

Three year members — Murray T. Brinson, chairman and Tommy Housh.

Two year members: David Fountain, Mike Poza and Lucy Baines.

One year members: J. Ray Hutton II, Barnie G. Walker Jr., vice-chairman.
Alternates: Julia Johnson and David Simonson.

The council indicated it would begin advertising for a replacement for Utilities Director Bill Cross, who plans to retire in August. Applications will be accepted through March 26.

Adjourned their regular meeting until Thursday, Feb. 16 when they will meet with Jim Suddarth, city engineer, in regards to applying for grants for the sewer treatment plant.

Suddarth attended Tuesday night's meeting and among other items told council members that much corrective work was being done at the city's wastewater treatment plant. Many of the deficiencies, which the city has been officially notified of within recent months by state and federal agencies, have been repaired, he said.

Lady Raider track team places 4th

BELLE GLADE -- Saturday the Lady Raider track team placed fourth out of 16 teams in the Twin Lakes Open, showing that they will be a contender again this year.

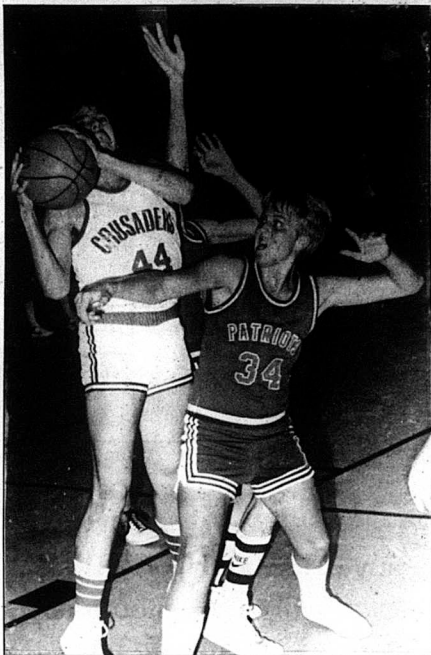

Leading the Lady Raiders were Leontye Mann, first in the 110 high hurdles and Leontye Mann, first in the 330 dash.

Other scoring points were: Shot Put, Rechina Johnson, second; 100 yard dash, Dawn Messan, fifth; 330 dash, Garcia Tucker, third; 660 dash, Garcia Tucker, fifth; 330 hurdles, Rechina Johnson, second.

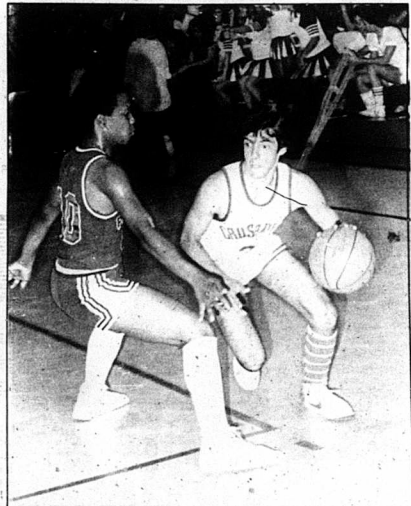

Lady Gators beat Ft. Pierce

BELLE GLADE -- The Glades Day girls' basketball team defeated John Carroll, 27-17, Friday, Feb. 10.

The win brought the Gators record to 6-7. Becky Teets led Glades Day with 14 points.

JOSE GARCIA captures a rebound for Christian Day School in Friday night's contest against Berean Christian.

ENROUTE to a Crusader victory.

Pahokee stops Raiders again

PAHOKEE -- Play it again Sam.

For the second time this year, the Pahokee Blue Devils narrowly squeaked by the Glades Central Raiders, 43-41, Monday night.

The victory moved Pahokee into a conference tie with the Raiders. Both teams have 9-2 conference records, with both of the Raiders defeats coming at the hands of Pahokee.

Pahokee is 14-7 on the year, while Glades Central dropped to 21-4.

The Blue Devils came back from an early ten point deficit to surge to a four-point lead with just one minute left in the game. Glades Central cut the lead to two, but could not catch their down-road rivals.

Barry Jackson sparked Pahokee with a fine all-around game, scoring 11 points, picking up 12 rebounds and passing for six assists.

Anthony Smith led Blue Devil scorers with 14 points.

For Glades Central Nate Johnston led the way with 15 points. Tommy Lee Anderson came off the bench to boost the team with fine inside play and 6 key points.

Harold Taylor, Raider head coach, said poor shooting did it in his team. Glades Central hit on only 7 of 25 shots in the second half. Comparatively, the team is shooting about 60 percent for the season.

Also, the team's poor second quarter play also hurt severely, Taylor said. After spurting to a ten-point early lead, the Raiders saw Pahokee score 12 straight points and get right back in the game.

"We had a chance to be in command and we totally lost control," he said.

Now, the Raiders have to put the loss behind them and get ready for the district tourney starting Thursday, Feb. 23, Taylor said.

"It's real critical the way we respond," he added. The team can't be dominated by the loss, but rather has to recover and play confidently the rest of the season, Taylor said.

Earlier in the week on Friday night, the Raiders came from behind to beat Pope John Paul High School, 67-62.

The Raiders were down by 7 points with four minutes to go, but surged back behind the scoring of Rhondy Weston and Terry Givens to take command of the game.

Givens led scorers with 22 points and Weston added 15 points.

Taylor noted that again Anderson came off the bench to play well for the Raiders, scoring 8 points.

The Blue Devils also won earlier in the week, beating Boca Raton, 73-67, Friday, Feb. 10.

Smith led Pahokee with 25 points, while Andrew Berry had 16. Jackson and Demetrius Brown added 13 each for the winners.

Christian Day School rolls to 67-50 win over Berean

BELLE GLADE -- An excellent second half performance keyed the Christian Day School boys' basketball team to a 67-50 victory over Berean Christian in Belle Glade, Friday night, Feb. 11.

CDS Coach Phillip Mullins said his squad played one of its best halves of the year, in putting away Berean Christian.

For the year CDS has a 6-13 record.

Mullins noted the team has played better as of late. "We're starting to come together," he said.

If the cagers can build some momentum and play with confidence, they could play very competitively in the upcoming district tourney, Feb. 23-7.

Mullins said, Glades Day, Kings Academy and Benjamin will be the big three at the tourney, he said, adding that the Crusaders can play with these teams, if they play at their peak level.

"It will take a lot of hard work and improvement to play with those teams," he said.

Against Berean Christian, Mullins said, the Crusaders played poorly in the first half, but then recovered with excellent play after intermission to earn the victory.

Despite sloppy play, CDS spurted to a quick lead in the game, thanks to a strong inside game and an effective press.

Berean Christian came alive early in the third quarter and at one stage cut the Crusaders lead from over ten points to three points. However, the Crusaders regrouped in a time-out and then slowly took control of the game, rebounding well and taking good shots every trip down the floor.

Every player on the CDS squad saw some action and Mullins noted that everyone played very well together.

Mirroto Vigoa led the offense with 16 points.

Tim Mann followed with 13 points and 11 rebounds. Mullins noted both of these players performed very well considering the limited amount of action they saw.

Earlier in the week, on Tuesday, Feb. 14 the Moore Haven High School Terriers defeated the Crusaders in Belle Glade, 77-52.

Mullins said his team played well in the first half in this game and then dropped off in the second. "We just fell apart," he said.

Individually, Jose Ramos played an excellent all-around game, Mullins noted. Ramos scored 14 points and grabbed 16 rebounds.

Gators suffer defeat

BELLE GLADE -- The Glades Day Gator basketball team was beaten, 70-63, by John Carroll, Thursday, Feb. 16.

The Gators rallied from a 12-point deficit in the final quarter, but could not pull even with John Carroll.

Mike Shlechter led Glades Day with 25 points, followed by Brian Lohmann with 22.

The loss dropped the Gators record to 10-7.

Bill Branch kicks off tournament season

JOHN RAWN, of Lake Worth, accepts the first prize trophy for his 23 pound, 1 ounce string of fish caught out of Slim's Marina, Sunday, Feb. 12 in the Bill Branch Chevrolet Bass Tournament. Presenting Rawn his trophy is Tommy Ball, of Bill Branch.

3 wrestlers advance to state

BELLE GLADE -- Glades Central advanced three varsity wrestlers to the state tournament to be held Friday and Saturday, Feb. 17-18 in Pinellas Park.

Juran Sampson, 136 pounds, John Hubbard, 159 pounds, and James Moore, 171 pounds, all placed in the regional tournament held last weekend in Fort Lauderdale.

Hubbard finished second in the regionals, while Sampson and Moore both finished fourth.

Coach Frank Lasagna said Hubbard has a good shot at placing in the state tournament. The other two wrestlers may have a tougher time, as each faces a regional champ in the opening round.

As a team, Glades Central did well in the regional, placing eight out of 29 teams.

Lasagna said all wrestlers deserved credit for their fine efforts. "Everyone wrestled real well," he said.

Phillip Farley, 145 pounds, wrestled particularly well. Lasagna said, Farley just barely missed qualifying for state. In the decisive match, Farley fell behind 8-0, fought back gamely, but was just edged out, 15-10.

"It was something to see him battling back out there," Lasagna said.

Other wrestlers who competed in the regional included: Frank Kelly, Lorenzo Crane, Andrew Roberts, Homer Rozier, Victor Blue, Lee Ford and Edgar Motley.

BELLE GLADE -- A $5,000 check made the rainy, dismal weather, Sunday, Feb. 12, seem a whole lot brighter to at least one angler.

John Rawn, Lake Worth, weighed in 23 pounds and one ounce of Lake Okechobee bass to take home first place in the Bill Branch Chevrolet Bass Tournament, held out of Slim's Marina in Belle Glade.

Some 148 men fished in the tournament, the first on the 1984 Bill Branch Tournament Trail.

Weather played a big factor in the tourney, as many of the anglers returned to the weigh-in with little to show for their efforts. Few of the fishermen caught the limit of seven bass, even Rawn only brought in six.

However, for a few of the fishermen it was a perfect day to fish.

David Sullivan, of Belle Glade, led a pack of Glades fishermen with a 16-pound, 4-ounce, fourth place finish.

Three Moore Haven anglers placed in the tourney: Bruce Anderson, fifth, 15-pounds, 13-ounces; Bill Lilley, sixth, 14-pounds, 5-ounces; and Alvin Ward Jr., ninth, 12-pounds, 8-ounces.

Clewiston's Jim Wells finished eleventh with a 12-pound string. Johnny Johnson, Punta Gorda, claimed the $2,000 second prize with 19 pounds, 10 ounces. Tom Tucker, Fort Lauderdale, copied both third place and big fish honors with a 18 pound, 8 ounce total and a 8 pound, 14 ounce individual fish.

Of his winning total, Rawn said, "It feels great, just outstanding."

The 23-pound, 1-ounce total came on six fish. Rawn said all the bass were hooked up in Monkey Box with a silver spinner bait.

Rawn said his catches were spread out during the day. As deadline neared, he said, he knew one more big fish was needed.

That last extra boost came in form of a five pound bass and Rawn said he knew then that he had a good shot at the money.

Rawn is one of the many anglers who are competing in all tournaments in the Bill Branch Tournament Trail. With his first place finish, Rawn scored 40 points and emerged as early leader in the fight to win the $16,000 Ranger Bass Boat which will go to the season point leader.

Bill Branch Tournament Trail Director Larry Douglas said the Belle Glade tourney was a good kickoff event for the trail's second year program. Douglas commented the 148-angler turnout was a tourney record, although he added he hoped to beat this record in the next tourney. Sunday, March 11 on Lake Toho, out of Southport Marina.

Fishermen must sign up for this tourney seven days beforehand, Douglas stressed.

The next Glades tourney on the Bill Branch Trail comes April 8 in Clewiston. Douglas expressed his appreciation to the staff and management of the Holiday Inn, Belle Glade, scene of the tourney banquet Friday night, and Slim's Marina, for their cooperation in getting the 1984 season off to a successful start.

FHP issues equipment citations

Checking your car for any faulty equipment, could save you a ticket from the Florida Highway Patrol.

Corporal William Burroughs said patrolmen are issuing citations, rather than corrective notices, for faulty equipment. With the closing of inspection stations, patrolmen are taking extra efforts to keep faulty cars off the roads.

"Enforcement action in that area is going to increase," Burroughs added.

The best way to avoid a ticket is to have your car checked out a service station, Burroughs said.

"Most of all what we want to do is have people get their vehicles inspected and make sure they're safe," he said.

McHenry - Woodham exchange vows in candlelight ceremony

Brent Allen Woodham and Leigh Elizabeth McHenry were united in marriage January 2 in a double ring candlelight ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clinton A. McHenry of Boca Raton and the daughter of George C. Roeding of Ft. Lauderdale.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Howard Woodham of Belle Glade and the grandson of Mrs. Verda Mathewson, also of Belle Glade.

The ceremony was performed at the St. Joan of Arc Catholic Church in Boca Raton with the Rev. Michael T. Driscoll officiating.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father, Clinton A. McHenry.

The church organists presented a selection of nuptial music. Jody Hindman, maid of honor, sang The Wedding Song.

The altar was banked with red and white poinsettias intermingled with miniature white lights and twin seven branch candelabra. The pews were marked with white bows and candles.

The bride wore a floor-length candlelight gown with a Queen Anne neckline, fitted bodice, sheer sleeves and tiered skirt.

It was accented with applied lace and seed pearls. The waltz length bridal veil was of silk illusion with a fitted headpiece of lace and seed pearls.

She wore a single strand of pearls and carried cascade of white orchids, stephanies and foliage.

The maid of honor was Jody Hindman. She wore a candlelight full length taffeta gown with a sweetheart neckline and a double puff sleeves. Her headpiece was white poinsettias with a red center. She bouquet consisted of red and white poinsettias, foliages and streamers.

Bridesmaids were Karen Stephens of California, sister of the bride; Betty Ann McHenry of Pennsylvania, sister-in-law of the bride; Evelyn Galus of Lake Harbor; Donna Catotti of Gainesville; Julia Reath of Boca Raton and Diane Higgie of Indiana.

They all wore dresses identical to the maid of honor and carried red poinsettias. They each wore matching pearl necklaces, a gift of the bride.

James Randall Woodham, brother of the groom, served as best man. Groomsman were Mark Woodham of Belle Glade, brother of the groom; Scott Woodham of Belle Glade, cousin of the groom; Artis Ford of Mississippi, formerly of South Bay; James Miller of South Bay; Floyd Galus of Belle Glade; Alex McHenry of Pennsylvania and John McHenry of Orlando, both brothers of the bride.

The groom was formally attired in a black tuxedo with tails. The groomsmen all wore formal after six black tuxedos with red boutonnieres.

The ringbearer was Brenton A. McHenry, IV, nephew of the bride.

The flowergirl was Sara Woodham of Belle Glade, niece of the groom. Her dress and headpiece were similar to the bridesmaids.

The bride's mother wore a street-length dusty rose georgette dress with self-embroidered overlay.

The groom's mother wore a street-length royal blue georgette dress trimmed in satin.

Mathewson, grandmother of the groom, chose a street length turquoise pleated chiffon dress.

The bride wore a corsage of white orchids. The buffet reception was held immediately following the ceremony at the Boca Pointe Country Club.

The guest tables were appointed with white cloths, red napkins, and centered with arrangements of poinsettias.

A traditional three tiered white wedding cake was served to the guests.

The bride wore a street-length red georgette dress as her going away outfit.

After a honeymoon trip through Florida, the couple are residing at West Lafayette, Indiana, where the groom is studying for a Master's Degree in Industrial Relations at the Krannert School of Business at Purdue University.

The bride is a graduate of Boca Raton High School and the University of Florida, Gainesville where she graduated with a Bachelor of Statistics Degree. She is employed by Kay-Toy and Hobby Shops, Inc. as a manager in West Lafayette.

The groom is a 1975 graduate of Glades Central High School. He attended Palm Beach Junior College, Glades Campus and is a 1980 graduate of the University of Florida, Gainesville with a Bachelor of Science and Bachelor of Arts Degree.

Mr. and Mrs. James Howard Woodham hosted the rehearsal dinner for the couple and their wedding party and guests on Jan. 1 at the Captain's Table on the intercoastal in Deerfield Beach.

Raiders eye district

BELLE GLADE—The state fifth ranked Glades Central girls cadres head into the district tourney this weekend hoping to extend their unbeaten mark.

The girls start tourney play Friday night against either Atlantic or SantaLucas at Cardinal Neuman High School.

Coach Graham Frost said the tourney is going to be tough, noting that both North Shore and Cardinal Neuman have excellent teams.

If the Raider girls can come out the district champion, they will host the regional tourney, beginning Tuesday night, Feb. 21.

For the week, the girls closed out the regular season with two victories and a perfect 19-0 record, beating Pope John Paul High School 67-33 on Thursday, Feb. 9 and topping Pahokee 54-37, Saturday, Feb. 7.

Against Pope John Paul, the girls played "our best game of the season," according to Frost. Defensively, the Raiders played very well, commented the coach.

Evette Lyman scored 22 points, Denise Bussey had 14 and Terry Bailey added 10.

Frost said intensity was lacking in the Pahokee game, the last regular season game.

Bussey led scorers with 16 points. Bailey and Lyman contributed 10 apiece.

Soccer team wins

The Glades Central soccer team won its first game in a district tournament, beating Suncoast High School, Monday, Feb. 13, 4-0.

"We had a great game," said coach Dave Kornhauser.

For the Raiders, Terry Lampkin had an outstanding game with three goals. Clyde Williams also added a goal for the winners.

Several players had assists including: Brian Chambers, Salusa Basquin, Terry Lampkin, Ricky Gilmore and Wil Gimes Marseille.

While the team had trouble during the regular season with a 1-15 record, Kornhauser said he knew the squad had a good shot at winning games in the district tourney.

The team was scheduled to play Northshore Tuesday, Feb. 15 in the second round. Results were not available as of press time.

The semi-final game in the district was scheduled for Wednesday night and the finals, Friday, the tourney is being played at Southfork High School in Martin County.

Use your library through the U. S. Postal system

The Palm Beach County Library System can be as close as your mailbox.

The newest catalog of the Mail-A-Book service for rural residents will be in the mail this month.

The Palm Beach County Library System has been offering the Mail-A-Book service for about one year, and reaches over 900 people county-wide. The library prepares a catalog of paperback books available for check-out by mail and sends it out to boxholders on rural routes in Palm Beach County.

A library card is not required to use the service. Requests for books are mailed to the library and the books requested are sent back and forth between the library and the patron by mail. All the costs of mailing are paid by the library.

Gary Corrigan, Extension Services Coordinator for the Library System, said that there has been a surge of interest in mail order library service nationally. Because of the increased cost of books and operating libraries

Raiders eye district

BELLE GLADE—The state fifth ranked Glades Central girl cagers head into the district tourney this weekend hoping to extend their unbeaten mark.

The girls start tourney play Friday night against either Atlantic or SantaLucas at Cardinal Neuman High School.

Coach Graham Frost said the tourney is going to be tough, noting that both North Shore and Cardinal Neuman have excellent teams.

If the Raider girls can come out the district champion, they will host the regional tourney, beginning Tuesday night, Feb. 21.

For the week, the girls closed out the regular season with two victories and a perfect 19-0 record, beating Pope John Paul High School, 67-33 on Thursday, Feb. 9 and topping Pahokee 54-37, Saturday, Feb. 7.

Against Pope John Paul, the girls played "our best game of the season," according to Frost. Defensively, the Raiders played very well, commented the coach.

Evette Lyman scored 22 points, Denise Bussey had 14 and Terry Bailey added 10.

Frost said intensity was lacking in the Pahokee game, the last regular season game.

Bussey led scorers with 16 points, Bailey and Lyman contributed 10 apiece.

Soccer team wins

The Glades Central soccer team won its first game in the district tournament, beating Suncoast High School, Monday, Feb. 13, 4-0.

"We had a great game," said coach Dave Kornhauser.

For the Raiders, Terry Lampkin had an outstanding game with three goals. Clyde Williams also added a goal for the winners.

Several players had assists including: Brian Chambers, Salusa Basquin, Terry Lampkin, Ricky Gilmore and Wil Gies Marselle.

Jr. Women donate for cribs

BELLE GLADE -- Glades General Hospital's pediatric ward can purchase two more crib tops thanks to a $1,134 check from members of the Belle Glade Junior Women's Club.

Committee Chairman Sharon Underwood said she had offered the club's assistance to Supervisor of Nursing Sue Carlton last year.

Underwood said that within a few days, Carlton called and asked if she was really serious about helping do something for the pediatric ward and she said yes.

Carlton explained that there were crib tops that fit on top of the pediatric cribs that had, due to budget cuts, been continuously cut from the proposed budgets.

She explained the cribs did have nets that are tied to the cribs, and that they were adequate, but that they prevented the older child from being able to stand up in the crib.

More importantly, she said, when an emergency arose, those nets had to be untied before the child could be reached.

Military news

Staff Sgt. Dorothy J. Jones, daughter of Dora G. and Kenneth Matheus of Manila, Ark., has been named outstanding non-commissioned officer of the quarter for the 15th Air Base Wing at Hickam Air Force Base, Hawaii.

The competition was based on job knowledge, significant self-improvement, leadership qualities, ability to be an articulate and positive spokesman for the Air Force and other accomplishments.

Jones is command administration protocol supervisor. Her husband, Air Force Tech. Sgt. William C. Jones, is the son of Sue Vuglamore of 1148 Stillwell Drive, Belle Glade, Fla.

She is a 1967 graduate of Manila High School.

A Pinch of Salt

Know a Humpty Dumpty?

Humpty Dumpty sat on a wall. Humpty Dumpty had a great fall. All the King's horses and all the King's men couldn't put Humpty Dumpty back together again.

When we were children that was just a nursery rhyme. Now we know from observation and experience that it is a profound statement of truth and an unequivocal description of the cruel realities of life.

Occasionally we hear of a good egg, a fine christiah Humpty Dumpty who was playing too close to the edge and fell.

There he is, broken. It's a pitiful sight.

And what's even more pitiful is to hear the comments of his friends: "I knew it was going to happen sooner or later." "When you play with fire, you get burned." "He got what was coming to him." "That could never happen to me".

Any pious jerk can make statements like that. But it takes intestinal fortitude and genuine christian love to do what the Apostle Paul urges:

"Brethren, if any person is overtaken in misconduct or sin of any sort, you how are spiritual - who are responsive to and controlled by the Spirit - should set him right and restore and reinstate him, without any sense of superiority and with all gentleness, keeping an attentive eye on yourself, lest you should be tempted also." Galatians 6:1 (Amplified Bible)

Paul says we are to restore that christian brother who has fallen. The New Testament Greek word here translated "restore" is also found in Matthew 4:21 and Mark 1:19, but there it is translated "mending".

The fishermen were mending their nets. Why didn't they just throw the nets away and buy new ones? Because that would be wasteful. It makes more sense to repair. Don't throw your christian brother away; repair him.

This same Greek word was also used in ancient times when speaking of "setting" a broken bone.

How would you like the orthopedic surgeon to set your broken bone with the swing of a baseball bat or by running over it with his new Cadillac?

Obviously not; those methods would do more harm than the original injury. You want the bone to be set gently.

If you know a Humpty Dumpty who has had a great fall, restore him in a spirit of gentleness, keeping in mind that someday, even you might fall.

The world's largest sugar cube!

BELLE GLADE—The world's largest sugar cube is beginning to take form, hopefully.

Black Gold Jubilee Committee member John Pitts, of the Glades Sugar Growers' Cooperative, displayed a test cube, about one-fourth the size of the cube to be shown during the jubilee, at the committee's regular meeting, Friday, Feb. 10.

The current problem with construction is stability. Committee President Ernie McCroan noted the cube looked great, but just didn't stay together well enough.

The cube presented

Friday, was built within a wooden mold. When the mold was pulled off, the cube began to crumble a little at the edges.

Pitts said Glades Coop worker would put together another test cube for inspection at the next committee meeting, Friday, Feb. 10, this time using hot sugar with the hopes that it will be more stable.

The actual cube planned for the April 13-15 event will be eight feet tall, eight feet wide and will weigh an estimated 800 pounds.

In other jubilee business, committee members continued to work on mapping out this year's activities.

Pitts brought a blueprint of the tent area to the meeting. Committee members will now use the blueprint to determine how many booths will be allowed in the tent and where they will be located.

The Belle Glade Police Department displayed a map of the fest grounds drawn by a departmental artist. The map will help the committee plan the locations of varying activities.

Inspector Mike Miller told committee members that details would be added to the map as they are finalized.

Planning for the April 13 Harvest Queen contest also continues. Bob Lee, of US Sugar Corp., has agreed to serve as master of ceremonies for the event.

Charla Sizemore is organizing an essay contest for all area fifth grade students. The best essay will be included in the jubilee booklet and the author will be given a $5 award.

Sizemore also announced she is still looking for interesting informational items to include in the booklet.

One lump, or two?

MEMBERS of the Black Gold hoped to eventually become Jubilee Committee inspect a the world's largest sugar smaller version of what is cube.

Paul Hart's dream: to walk again

PAUL AND CAROL HART

"As one doctor said, 'I do the cutting, but God does the healing.'"
—Carol Hart

By JIM JONES

July 8, 1983, is a date the Paul Hart family will never forget.

It was on that date that an airborne motor accident changed their lives forever.

Hart, who had recently been laid off from his job at Sugar Cane Growers Cooperative of Florida, was working on the motor when it came off a stand which was supporting it. The falling prop nearly severed his right leg and right arm. He also suffered severe gashes on his face and left leg.

Doctors compared his injuries to those suffered by soldiers who step on landmines.

As rescuers rushed him to the hospital from his Flagpole home, the key questions were, 1. Would he live, and 2. Could his damaged limbs be saved?

Seven months later the answers to both those questions seems to be a resounding "yes."

Hart has been helped along in his recovery by his resilient spirit, faith in God, love and encouragement of his family, and strong community support in both Clewiston and Belle Glade.

To date that community concern has translated into almost $50,000 being raised to help meet his medical bills. That total includes a $23,000 donation by United States Sugar Corp.

"We appreciate the donation so much," Mrs. Carol Hart said of the community donations in general and the USSC contribution in particular. "Without it, we couldn't have gotten him into Shands Hospital."

Even with the donations, however, the family faces staggering medical bills of $170,000.

Major surgery will have to be performed on his right leg, which has no bone from the knee to the ankle. And there are sure to be other operations and therapy after that. The bills will continue to roll in.

With the memory of Hart's accident beginning to fade from public memory, donations have fallen off sharply.

With the exception of Friday when Hart went back to Gainesville for more X-rays, he has been in Hendry General Hospital the past five weeks, continuing to gather strength.

He is chipper as ever. "I have a lot of dreams of getting out of bed and walking again," he said.

He is also looking beyond the time when he leaves his hospital bed. He is considering a career in either business or computers.

Members of the Clewiston Assembly of God Church gave him a computer for his birthday Oct. 23, when he turned 31. It has become one of his favorite pastimes. He has since read three books on computer operations.

The immediate concern is mending Paul Hart's injuries.

On Dec. 29, surgeons fused his right shoulder, an operation which goes a long way toward repairing that damage, but which would restrict the motion of his shoulder.

"We're not giving up. You have to keep believing and not give up," said Carol Hart. "As one doctor said, 'I do the cutting, but God does the healing.'"

For all his problems, Paul Hart is thankful to the many who have stepped in to help.

They range from members of the Hendry County Sheriff's Department who have provided transportation between Gainesville and Clewiston, Dr. Jim Forbes, the Candy Strippers, friends in the community who continue to visit, to members of his church.

Hart's courage, optimism, and sense of humor have helped make him a special patient at Hendry General.

He notes, ironically, that he now wears an "airplane splint" on his right shoulder. "It was that or a body cast," he said, noting that it was an airplane motor that caused his problems in the first place.

Editor's Note: Accounts have been set up for Paul Hart at First Bank of Clewiston and Southeast Banks in Belle Glade.

West Tech students compute

BELLE GLADE—The addition of some 16 word processors, 21 advanced typewriting machines and other software equipment has allowed the West Technical Educational Center to add a business program to its curriculum. Members of the center's General Advisory Committee toured the new program as part of their regular meeting, Thursday, Feb. 9.

The business program began Jan. 31 and about 85 students have taken advantage of the high tech opportunity in day and night classes. The equipment, which cost an estimated $100,000, was delivered to the center in January.

West Tech Director Joe Picklesimer said the program is an important addition to the center.

"This opens up another segment to the school. It brings in a different type of person," he said.

Picklesimer said he was very pleased with the business student turnout, noting the center could not handle any more than the 85 students.

Business study is being offered in accounting, word processing, data answering and typing. Students can take any combination of the four topics, Picklesimer said. Continued on page 3

Church welcomes minister

EVERETTE N. BEAN

BELLE GLADE—Everette N. Bean is the new minister of the Church of Christ, 125 NW Ave. D.

In just his second week in Belle Glade, Bean said first impressions of the community and his new congregation have been good.

Bean said his first task in his new home was to work his way into the community.

Citing no immediate goals for the church, he said he was taking his new situation one day at a time, evaluating strengths and needs of the church.

Everyone connected with the church, Bean said, is confident that the future will be positive.

"Hopefully, we'll make a lot of progress," he said.

"We all want to be active."

Bean and his wife June are living at 232 NW 14th St., Belle Glade, come from Jacksonville where they lived for more than eight years. Bean is a native of North Carolina.

The couple has two children, a son and daughter, both adults.

NOAH studies housing needs

By TOM KISKEN

BELLE GLADE—Some 20 neighbors of varying race and background have been brought together by the community wide need for improved housing.

Members of Neighbors Organized for Adequate Housing (NOAH) are trying to put together a housing program which would provide better living conditions to the many needy tenants in Belle Glade.

The housing group began its weekly meetings in November and was just recently named. Member Betsy Farrar said NOAH, which includes whites, blacks, Haitians and Cubans, agreed that housing was the one community need which affected just about everyone.

"Everyone in the group said housing was what they needed," Farrar said.

So, NOAH decided to do what it could to help with the housing problem. "Our efforts probably sprung out of the need to help one's neighbor and share," Farrar said.

If others join in this effort to help out each other, NOAH could be successful in its attempt to provide better housing, Farrar said.

The community will be asked to provide much support to NOAH's housing program, through funds and volunteer work, she said. "Anything we do depends on local help and interest," Farrar said.

Currently, NOAH is observing different housing programs set up around the nation, searching for a system which will work in Belle Glade.

On Sunday, Feb. 19, the group will travel to Immokalee to observe the Habitat for Humanity. Continued on page 3

Library transformed into science lab

NEOMI OLIVER with her overall first prize winning project of converting cane into methanol.

BELLE GLADE—The library at Glades Central Community High School were transformed into a laboratory as the school's science fair took form, Thursday and Friday, Feb. 9-10.

About 208 exhibits of all kinds were displayed and judged in the library.

Competition was divided into three categories: ninth graders; physical science; biological science and overall.

Students were judged both on an exhibit and a paper turned in with the project.

Neomi Oliver, eleventh grade, was awarded the trophy for best overall project with her study on the conversion of sugar cane into methanol. Oliver discovered that the stalk of the cane produces the most methanol at a temperature of 90 degrees Fahrenheit.

Other winners include:

Ninth grade: Wendell Darville, first; Angela Thompson, second; and Daniel Pierson, third.

Physical science: Valerie Clark, first; Travis Barrett, second; Maxine Cole, third.

Biological science: Wardell Jefferson, first; Robert Gibbons, second; and Eli Cano, third.

All ten award winners will have an opportunity to display their projects at the county fair coming up in March at the Palm Beach Mall.

course is custom designed to fit each student's needs, he added.

Students can learn all of the topics on the one word processing machine, Picklesimer said. He noted that the equipment meant the difference between "offering a quality school or just a school."

The need for the new equipment and the business program, Picklesimer said, was shown in a survey of the entire Glades area taken last year.

In addition to the word processors and the type writers, the center also received six dictaphones and various other software.

In their advisory committee business. Members discussed ongoing efforts to obtain accreditation from the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools (SACS).

A finalized draft of the school's self study, which is about three-inches thick, was presented to committee members. Every area of the school is analyzed in the study, one of the major steps toward gaining accreditation.

Picklesimer expressed his appreciation to every member of the center's staff in helping to put the in-depth study together.

The study will now be put into bound-volume shape and sent to members of a SACS committee which will review the study in late April to further evaluate quality of education.

If the center meets all requirements, the committee will recommend the center be accredited.

A purpose of the self study is to pinpoint areas which might not meet SACS standards. Picklesimer said corrective work has been begun in certain areas. The center is ahead of schedule on work to be done for accreditation, he added.

Elsewhere, Picklesimer reported that he had sent a letter to the Palm Beach County School Board, expressing the center's opposition to Proposition One. Each committee member agreed to observe several courses, being offered at the center and then present reports at the next committee meeting, April 12.

An open house will be held at the center, Thursday, Feb. 23. Dean Jones, of Belle Glade, was welcomed as the newest member of the advisory committee.

ty program, being utilized by about 45 cities throughout the nation as well in Haiti and Africa.

Habitat for Humanity buys property, constructs its own homes, depending greatly on volunteer help from the community, and then sells these homes interest free to the needy.

Another program being considered by NOAH is the Jubilee group of Washington, D.C. which rehabilitates rental housing.

Jubilee provides funds to tenants who rehabilitate their units themselves, again using volunteer help from the community. In this program, tenants also take classes to learn how to improve and then maintain their homes.

The Jubilee program has provided some 213 families in inner Washington D.C. with improved housing. The program is being used by some 50 cities in the United States.

A third program being considered by NOAH is the Indian town housing program, which began as a small project, not unlike NOAH, and expanded into a multi-million dollar system. This program deals mostly with providing new homes to migrant families through government and private funds.

Farrar said NOAH could pick any one of these programs, or combine the strengths of several into its own package.

The group has set a June target date for picking a program.

The key to the housing program, Farrar admitted, will be NOAH's ability to raise funds. The group hopes to fund itself mostly through the private sector, although it hopes some government aid may be available, she said.

NOAH is working with the city's Department of Planning and Community Development.

As soon as a housing program is selected, Farrar said members will start soliciting funds.

While maintaining she is "absolutely optimistic" about raising funds for a housing program, Farrar said she knew many in the community were quite skeptical about the feasibility of NOAH's program.

Pointing to the Habitat for Humanity and Jubilee programs, which are almost totally funded by private donations, she said other communities have proven that non-governmental projects can work.

If housing projects can work elsewhere, they can work in Belle Glade, she stated.

"We're going purely on faith," she said.

In other communities, the church has played a major part in funding and organizing housing programs. While Farrar said NOAH is not pinpointing its efforts on just the church, the group would certainly appreciate any help it can get from this area.

Basically, she said the group would welcome any assistance it can get. NOAH has already been contacted by at least one other group interested in improving housing and Farrar said they are hoping to hear from others.

Farrar noted NOAH serves a dual purpose. In addition to working toward providing better living conditions, the group also brings together people from varying backgrounds.

In fact, the group was originally formed as an exchange of different cultures and beliefs. Representatives of the Roman Catholic and Lutheran churches formed a group back in the autumn which began meeting regularly and discussing their different backgrounds.

While housing became a central issue for the group, members have continued to share their backgrounds with each other and "really just going to know each other," Farrar said.

The group hopes to use its cultural diversity in the efforts to bring a housing program to Belle Glades. Farrar said members are discussing holding an international event of some type to raise funds.

Other residents of the community interested in meeting their neighbors and in fighting a community wide program are invited to attend a NOAH meeting. The group meets every Tuesday night at 7 p.m. 300 W. Canal St.

Any donations to NOAH's housing dream can be mailed to P.O. Box 13, Belle Glade.

Chamber sets seminar on unemployment problem

BELLE GLADE she said. Business throughout the Glades are being invited to attend the seminar. Chamber directors also discussed old business at Thursday's meeting. The lack of a quorum prevented directors from acting on any business.

The seminar, which will include presentations on unemployment credits available to employers and services offered by Job Service, is jointly sponsored by the Belle Glade Chamber of Commerce and the local Job Service office, N.W. Ave. 1, Belle Glade.

The seminar will begin with a free breakfast and will run about three to four hours. Exact time and location have not yet been determined.

Chamber directors discussed the seminar in their monthly meeting, Thursday, Feb. 9. President Israel Baez said, "We hope by educating all these people they can, number one, start to use the employment office like they should and take advantage of all the benefits available to the employer."

Several state and federal tax credit programs will be discussed at the seminar including: Targeted Jobs Tax Credit Program, the Enterprise Zone Tax Credit Program and the Veterans Emergency Job Bill.

Linda Metzger of Job Service, said this seminar will be the first of its kind in the area. "Hopefully, similar programs will be offered regularly, ring, John Pitts, Michael Grindstaff and Mike Cunningham. Grindstaff reported that he, Cunningham and Jewell Crane had all represented the chamber at the recent 4-lane SR 80 conference in Clewiston. Grindstaff said the meeting seemed effective. Belle Glade representatives expressed their desire to have SR 80 4-lane coast to coast, as long as this project would not delay the four-laning of the eastern portion of the highway, he said. Directors reviewed the progress of the ongoing membership drive. So far, about 11 new members have been recruited including:

Housing program off to slow start

By TOM KISKEN

BELLE GLADE - Few landlords are taking advantage of the opportunity to upgrade their property at reduced or no cost to themselves, according to a city planning official.

Gladys Ganzy, administrative assistant with the Department of Planning and Community Development, said only three applications have been turned in for the area's new housing rehabilitation program, jointly sponsored by the Palm Beach County Department of Housing and Community Development and the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Through the program, some landlords are eligible to gain funds from HUD for rehabilitating their property. Options allow landlords either to borrow all money needed for rehabilitation from HUD, or split the investment with HUD and private funds.

Extension of the rehabilitation opportunities is a type of pilot program, Ganzy said. If demand picks up, more money could be made available this fall. However, if interest continues to be lacking, the program will be transferred to an area where it will be better utilized.

"The money is available," Ganzy said. "If it's not used here, they'll go on to other places."

Landlords were introduced to the new program in a special meeting held Jan. 24 in City Hall. Although some 15 property owners attended the meeting, only one has turned in an application thus far. Others have made general inquiries, Ganzy said, but have not formally applied.

In addition, two other applications had been accepted earlier.

Ganzy said either landlords do not know about the program, or are skeptical about the government's ability to make the program worthwhile. Skepticism is unwarranted, Ganzy said, pointing out that HUD and county administrators have given every indication that funds are available for Belle Glade.

Information on the program and applications are available from Ganzy at the Belle Glade City Hall. She can be reached at 996-0100, extension 84.

If interest continues to be lacking, the program will be transferred to an area where it will be better utilized.

Applications will be reviewed on an individual basis, Ganzy said.

There are no guarantees that any specific application will be accepted, however landlords have nothing to lose by applying, Ganzy stressed.

"They have everything to gain," she stated. One obstacle which may be holding back landlords is the fear of having to raise rent due to the cost of rehabilitation.

Ganzy said some financial assistance for tenants is available through HUD. At the Jan. 24 meeting held on the program, Sherri Jones, representing the county, gave her word that certain tenants who had lived in one place for a long time would not be evicted due to increased rent.

Jones also stated rehabilitation projects on existing apartments would be favored over work on rooming houses.

At the time, landlords indicated there was more of a need in Belle Glade for rehabilitation of rooming houses.

While Ganzy repeated the county's desire to avoid rooming house work, she added that if rooming houses are all that is available they would be seriously considered for the program.

So far, the only two projects ruled eligible for the program are rooming houses in the process of being converted into apartments.

The approved projects are: a 8-unit, two-story building at 534 SW 7th St., and another 8-unit portion of a building at 257 SW 5th St. Both of these properties are in the midst of the preparatory work leading to rehabilitative construction.

The other application received is currently being reviewed.

Strict building code enforcement may get city landlord's attention

BELLE GLADE - The city's strict policy on building code enforcement may push property owners toward considering the county's housing rehabilitation program.

Barrie Underwood, city building inspector, said many landlords may soon be faced with the option of repairing their properties, or paying stiff fines to the city's new Code Enforcement Board.

Those who opt to repair their units can apply for the new rehabilitation program and perhaps receive financial aid, Underwood said. "Hopefully, this (code enforcement) will push a lot more people into the (rehabilitation) program," Underwood said.

Underwood and other city officials have been inspecting city buildings and noting code violations since September, and a Friday, Feb. 3 deadline has been set for landlords to take steps toward correcting code violations.

Applications for the rehabilitation program could accelerate as the deadline nears, Underwood said.

Also, once a few stiff fines are levied, there could be a big rush toward the county program, he added.

Still, Underwood said he is disappointed on the lack of interest in the rehabilitation program.

"The biggest cry we hear is 'Where can we get the money?'" Underwood said of the landlord's response to being written up for a code violation. Now, that an avenue has been paved for financial assistance, there are very few takers, he said.

Any landlord hit with a code violation is told about the availability of help from the rehab program, Underwood said.

Hopefully, landlords facing fines for code violations will soon get the message of their situation and begin to look toward the program, he added.

Overcoming plant freeze damage

By Dr. Robert J. Black

Horticulturist

What to do to help plants recover from freeze damage? This question is on the minds of many home gardeners since the severe freeze at Christmas left many cold hardy plants (pyracantha, Viburnum spensum and ligustrum) severely damaged. If the problem is new to you, you'll probably be anxious to do something for your suffering plants. One of the first things you may think of is taking out the pruning shears and cutting out the dead or dying leaves and branches. Well, this really isn't such a good idea. With many landscape ornamentals, you can't tell how much damage has been done until the plants start new growth in the spring.

With some of the more tender landscape plants, you'll find the cold has killed everything above the soil line. But many of these plants may surprise you by sending up new shoots come springtime. So don't give up on them until warmer weather arrives.

With azaleas the cold will usually damage flower buds and stems. You'll notice the bud damage for sure at blooming time when your plant produces few or no flowers. The stem damage will usually show up later in the spring and early summer when some of the branches die. Dead wood will be easily distinguishable from live wood when new growth begins in the spring. This will be the time to bring out the pruning shears and cut dead branches as you find them. Make clean cuts back to living wood. This means the cut surface should have a smooth surface not a rough one that looks as if the tissue has been torn or pulled. Care should be taken not to injure the plant around the cut, or rip or tear the bark above or below the cut. The cambium layer, a thin layer of cells just below the bark which is important in wound healing, is easily injured. Do not twist or turn the shears as you cut because you will injure the plant as well as your shears.

Painting the wounds with tree wound dressing has lately become a controversial practice. The standard recommendation has been to paint all wounds over one inch in diameter with a quality tree wound dressing to protect the cut surface from wood-rotting organisms and checking (radial cracking) upon drying. Some research has shown that upon exposure to the sun, the protective coating often cracks, and moisture enters the cracks and accumulates in pockets that occur between the wood and the wound covering. This situation may be even more inviting to wood-rotting organisms than one with no wound cover.

However, in situations where aesthetics are important, the practice is justified. If a pruning wound is to be protected, allow it to dry before applying the dressing. This will improve chances of good bonding. Examine the coating several times the first year. Retreat if the coating has cracked.

If you lose one or two of your tender ornamentals, don't despair. You have the opportunity to add something new to your landscape. With hundreds of plants to choose from and mild weather all year, most years, who could complain?

WASHINGTON—Congressman Tom Lewis (R-Florida 12th Congressional District) has been selected president of the U.S. House of Representatives 98th Congressional Republican Freshman class.

Congressman Lewis succeeds Congressman John McCain of Arizona, who held the position for the first term of the 98th Congress.

"I am honored that my freshmen colleagues thought enough of my work during our first year in Congress to choose me for this important position," Congressman Lewis said. "It is always nice to have the people you work with recognize you in such a manner."

Other new officers of the freshman class include Congressman Don Sund-quist of Tennessee, Virginia, vice president; Congressman Mike Bilirakis of Florida, vice president of programs; and Congressman Don Sund-

Registration still open at West Tech

Registration is still open for many West Tech classes. Students can enroll for full-time study during regular school hours or they can register for part-time day or part-time evening study.

Director Joe Picklesimer said West Tech offers vocational courses in health, business, trade and industrial education. He said many students at the center already have jobs and therefore, they must attend part-time for day or evening classes. The center has an open enrollment policy for all persons over 16
